

Allowing the use of cellular telephones on aircraft in flight is a bad idea. Based on experiences with inconsiderate phone users on the ground, this would likely cause an extreme increase in incidents of air rage would likely endanger all aboard. In addition, this would add the title of "argument mediator" to the long list of duties for flight attendants.

"Just Say No!"